Hei mihi quod nullis Amor eſt medicabilis herbis!
OVID.

SIR, Kingſtreet, Covent-Garden.

THERE is a young Lady of about Eighteen, in our Neighbourhood, for whom I have long ſigh'd in ſecret, who is fair as an Angel, but colder than Niobe, when transform'd into a Stone. I have frequently the Honour to be admitted at this frozen Beauty's Tea-Table; but never fail giving Attendance on Saturdays. You muſt know the Univerſal Spectator is the Weekly Amuſement there, and then I am appointed Orator in Ordinary, for the Improvement of our Time till the Kettle boils. Their Paper of the 7th Inſtant gave me a favourable Opportunity to exert my ſelf, and aſſume the Character of the Lover without the leaſt Suſpicion. With uncommon Tranſports I read the Pathetic Periods of Conſtantius. When I came to his Quotations, I even over-acted the Player, and introduc'd a ſoft Sentence or two by Way of Improvement where Occaſion offer'd. How my Heart danc'd whilſt I was reading over the Lover's Riddle! How gallantly does his Muſe gallop for thirty good Lines together in propounding the Ænigma, which in humble Proſe I conceive would run to this or the like Effect; Riddle my Ree, what ſingle Word in the whole Compaſs of the Engliſh Language is ſo extenſive, as to take in the Idea of all Perfection? Then how heroically does he challenge Cowley, Congreve, Waller, and Prior, nay Apollo himſelf to reſolve this Kuſty Queſtion! At laſt in what a ſurprizingly beautiful Manner does he aſſume the Character of a ſecond Oedipus, and makes it mathematically plain that the bare mention of his Miſtreſſes Real Name, would be an indiſputable Solution. Whether the Charm lay in her Chriſtian, or Sirname, he has left indeed undetermin'd, which, in my Opinion, is the only Objection that can poſſibly be made to that ingenious Eſſay. When I had finiſh'd the Paper in Raptures, how was I thunderſtruck when I ſaw the dear Object of my Wiſhes frown, and with Lightning in her Eyes pronounce the Performance very inſipid, and egregiouſly romantic. Had any Fellow preſum'd, ſaid ſhe, to have ſent me ſuch a fulſom Complement, I'd have box'd his Ears at the next Interview, and diſcarded him for an affected Coxcomb. In ſhort, ſhe grew outragious, a perfect Rebel to the Goddeſs Venus and her Son, and in the Height of her Reſentment publickly declar'd, that there was no ſuch Thing as LOVE. My Heart ſinking within me at this impious Aſſertion of my fair Infidel, I threw away the Paper, and after the ſecond Diſh mov'd off with ſome Precipitation, under Pretence that Buſineſs of Importance call'd me away. As nothing alleviates the Sorrows of a diſappointed Lover, like Poetry, I retir'd into my Cloſet, and in about an Hour afterwards, ſent her the incloſ'd Expoſtulation; upon which, ſhe has, like an inhuman Tyrant, forbid me her Houſe. I may now juſtly ſay, as Bajazet does of his diſdainful, his belov'd Arpaſia in Tamerlane: "With a malignant Joy ſhe views "my Ruin; ev'n beauteous in her Hatred ſtill ſhe charms me, "and awes my fierce tumultuous Soul to Love." There is an inexpreſſible Pleaſure in giving Vent to our Paſſions, when our Fortunes are outragious, and we are plung'd into a Sea of Troubles. I beg of you therefore to inſert the incloſ'd Copy of Verſes in your next Paper, that the World may judge whether what I have ſaid deſerves ſo ſevere a Reſentment. Your Compliance with this humble Requeſt will be eſteem'd an Act of Indulgence ſhewn to

Your diſconſolate Friend,
JAMES TRUE-LOVE.

To CLOE; on her aſſerting there was no ſuch Thing as Love.

I.

FAIR Infidel! profhane no more
The ſacred Name of Love;
The Deity, whom all adore,
Whoſe Reign we all approve.

II.

Dead at his Altar fall each Hour
The Victims of your Eyes;
And dare you then prophane the Pow'r
To whom you ſacrifice?

III.

What Muſe would ſing your Elegy,
If Vengeance ſhould purſue;
If you ſhould at thoſe Altars dye,
Where Thouſands dy'd for You.

IV.

Such was th' Egyptian Tyrant's Fall
When young Alcides led
The Savage to the Dome, where all
His Gueſts till then had bled.

V.

Yet bloody tho' his Off'rings were,
He own'd the Pow'r divine,
Rever'd the Deity, howe'er
Polluted was his Shrine.

VI.

What Vengeance then for two-fold Sin,
Has Love in ſtore for You,
Who offer Martyrs at his Shrine,
And yet diſdain him too.

To the AUTHOR of the WEEKLY REGISTER.

Jam Sumus ergo PARES.

SIR,

THE unexpected kind Reception which my laſt little TALE of the Leak diſcover'd has met with from the Publick, has encourag'd me to make a ſecond Attempt in the ſame Way. In your laſt merry Advertiſement you have hinted that Compoſitions of this Nature appear to Advantage, and hunt beſt in Couples. If ſo, I know of Nothing that can match it better, than the incloſ'd New Diſcovery, which I flatter my ſelf is equally gay and entertaining, full as amorous and warm, and yet I hope as inoffenſive to the niceſt Ear. Whenever your Inclination leads you to execute the Project you have propos'd, with Relation to the Grubs, if I might adviſe, it ſhould be publiſh'd by itſelf, as a Non-pareil, on a large Sheet of Imperial Atlas. Sure I am the Subject is copious enough: Beſides the Number of Groteſque Figures, that are intended to be introduc'd, can never, in my Opinion, appear to Advantage, and ſhine forth conſpicuous enough in a ſmaller Compaſs. Second Thoughts, they ſay, are beſt; and if, upon mature Deliberation, you ſhould think proper to embrace this Propoſition, my little poetical Labours are entirely at your Service. As my former Tale, I told you, bore ſome Reſemblance to Mr. GAY's Work for a Cooper; ſo I frankly acknowledge, my preſent Attempt is Couſin Germain to a pleaſant Story of that other Darling of the Ladies, the facetious Mr. Prior. I hope however, as it appears in a quite different Dreſs, is contracted into leſs than half the Compaſs, and adapted by Contrivance to PAIR with your Old Geron, it will anſwer your Purpoſe, and meet with the ſame Indulgence. If not, I ſhall only make uſe of the Words of a certain Play-Wright, when his Performances happen'd to be hiſt off the Stage, "That the Town don't know "a good Thing when they have it." I am Yours, &c.

L. L.

The THIEF DISCOVER'D; OR, WORK for the JUSTICE.

IN vain with weeping Eyes the QUEEN of LOVE
Long ſearch'd Heav'n over for her Favourite Dove.
CUPID, concern'd to ſee his Mother's Pain,
Cry'd, ceaſe your Tears: — I'll find your Bird again.
To Earth let's bend our Courſe; — full well I know
The Fair Purloiner, and her Lodgings too.
A thouſand little Loves around me ſtand,
All on the Wing whenever you command.
Fly then, ſhe ſaid, this Moment thro' the Air,
And I'll in Maſquerade, bring up the Rear.
Bent on Revenge to CLOE's Houſe they fled,
('Twas One a Clock, and CLOE was abed)
With lawleſs Force they batter'd down the Door,
Regardleſs of the Neighbours or the Hour.
Strait to the Room where the FAIR lay, they run: —
Thieves, Thieves, cry'd Suſan, we are all undone.
CLOE awak'd, in terrible Surprize; —
Where, Suſan, where? — and rubb'd her lovely Eyes.
But when ſhe ſaw her numerous Midnight Foes,
Trembling, ſhe ſunk her Head beneath the Cloaths.
With a ſtern Look, the GOD approach'd the Bed;
You are my Priſ'ner; — 'tis in vain to hide.
At VENUS' ſuit you here indicted ſtand.
Behold your MITTIMUS! by her Command.
By emulous Pride, or ſecret Malice ſtirr'd,
Your'e robb'd the GODDESS of her Favourite Bird.
She bluſh'd, and rais'd her Head above the Sheet;
'Tis a Fob-Warrant, CUPID, let me ſee't. —
By Heav'ns I'm falſly charg'd, my POLL I prize,
More than her Dove, or any Dove that flies.
But ſearch for Satisfaction where you pleaſe. —
Suſan, come hither, give him all my Keys. —
Her Keys he takes, and all her Doors unlocks,
Examines every Cloſet, every Box.
Tho' long he ſearch'd his Labours prov'd in vain,
Vext, he approaches CLOE's Bed again.
Well! Sir, ſaid ſhe, and is your Poultry found? —
Look ſharp. — Perhaps he's in the Tea-Pot drown'd.
No, Tryſtreſs, no, the nettled GOD reply'd,
Within your Breaſt the wanton Rover's hid.
Then ſearch, and ſee; I'll lay my Boſom bare —
With Tranſport CUPID gaz'd, and preſs'd the Fair.
Thoughtleſs, the Virgin let his Fingers rove
Too low, and touch the Citadel of Love.
Here, here's your Bird, Mama. — Ceaſe, ceaſe your Grief,
I feel his Feathers. —— CLOE is the THIEF.

To the AUTHOR of the WEEKLY REGISTER.

SIR,

YESTERDAY as I was at the Coffee-Houſe, muſing over my Pipe, I call'd for their Book of Spectators; and having heard a favourable Character of Mr. Stone-caſtle's, Paper of the 7th Inſtant, I made his Eſſay on the Force of Love my Morning's Amuſement. He has judiciouſly enough divided this Paſſion into three Claſſes; the Poetic, Heroic, and the Vulgar. I entirely agree with him in his Notion of the firſt Kind. 'Tis very natural for a Man who is over Head and Ears in Love, when his Miſtreſs frowns, to figh in Elegy, and when ſhe ſmiles, to rant in Pindaricks. But I hope Mr. Stone-caſtle will not be offended, if I endeavour to demonſtrate, that he's quite beſide the Cuſhion, and entertains a wrong Idea of the Two former. 'Tis no Heroic Action, in my Opinion, for a Lover to cut his own Throat, or in a Fit of Jealouſy to whip his Rival, as he imagines, thro' the Lungs to hang himſelf in deſpair on a Willow Tree, or to plunge headlong into a purling Stream. Heroic Love, I take it, is quite another Thing; a celeſtial, chaſt, refin'd, and rational Flame. As to vulgar Love, the very Deſcription he gives us of it, plainly demonſtrates that it is juſt the Reverſe. This coarſe Way of Wooing, ſays he, is little more than preſenting an exact Eſtimate of one's real and perſonal Eſtate, with a Proviſo of a Fortune equivalent. Pray, Mr. Regiſter, is there any Thing vulgar in all this? Iſn't this the Court Way of Addreſs? Iſn't this the Practice of the greateſt Monarchs in the Univerſe? 'Tis vulgar Love, according to my Notion of the Term, when two Parties conſent to ————, plunge headlong into the Abyſs of Matrimony without any thought of Futurity, and if they can but raiſe Half a Guinea for a Thumb-Ring, and Half a Crown for a Fleet-Parſon, never puzzle their Brains about Settlements or Pin-Money. Then again he's moſt miſerably miſtaken as to the Antiquity of Smithfield Bargains, which he confidently aſſerts were frequently made before the Flood. I almoſt bluſh for him, I confeſs, when I conſider the Teſtimony he has produc'd to maintain this groundleſs Notion, I mean the two Romantic Antedeluvian Billet-doux of his facetious Predeceſſor. But perhaps he may be waggiſh; for indeed he lays it down only as a Woman's Reaſon. I have Nothing more to add but this, that if Mr. Stone-caſtle is in the Right, the inimitable Dean S—t is intirely in the Wrong; whoſe Authority, I preſume with the Generality of Mankind, will go farther than the Spectator's. He has aſſur'd us that the Antients had no Notion of a Smithfield Bargain; that in the Days of Yore, Love was alone the Recompence of Love; and in a Word, that this coarſe Way of Wooing, as Mr. Spec calls it, was never practis'd by any but the Moderns. As no Lines of that facetious Author ever diſpleas'd, I doubt not, but his Sentiments on the Topick before us, will be an acceptable Entertainment to your Readers. I have therefore taken the Pains to tranſcribe them for you, and ſhall be ready at all Times to collect ſuch Materials as I think may be of any Service to your future Papers. I am, &c.

The Idea of antient and modern Love, as it is beautifully introduc'd in a juſtly admir'd TALE of Dean Sw—t's, entitled Cadenus and Vaniſſa.

OUR modern Love is no ſuch Thing,
As what the antient Poets ſing;
A Fire celeſtial, chaſt, refin'd,
Conceiv'd, and kindled in the Mind;
Which having found an equal Flame,
Unites, and both become the ſame;
In different Breaſts together burn;
Together both to Aſhes turn:
But WOMEN now feel no ſuch Fire,
And only know the groſs Deſire,
Their Paſſions move in lower Spheres,
Where'er Caprice, or Folly ſteers;
A Dog, a Parrot, or an Ape,
Or a worſe Brute, in human Shape,

Engroſs the Fancies of the Fair,
The few ſoft Moments they can ſpare,
From Viſits, to receive and pay,
From Scandal, Politicks, and Play,
From Fans, and Flounces, and Brocades,
From Equipage, and Park-Parades,
From all the thouſand female Toys,
From every Trifle that employs
The Out, or In-ſide, of their Heads,
Between their Toilet, and their Beds.
Love now, in ſhort, is all Intrigue.
And Marriage grown a Money-League.

The Danes fitted out this Year two Ships for Eaſt-India, and one for China, upon whom great Sums have been aſſured in this City (London.) From Paris, we are told, that a certain Lady, fancying herſelf touch'd by a new Piece that was lately play'd there, entitled, The Triumph of Intereſt; ſhe complain'd to a Magiſtrate of it, and deſir'd he would ſtop the farther Repreſentation of the ſaid Play. But the Magiſtrate being a wiſe Man, and well becoming the Dignity of his Poſt, anſwer'd the Lady thus; "Madam, The Buſineſs of Comedy "is to correct the Manners of the Age; if that Play has "made you ſenſible of your Faults, begin to correct them, "and then you'll find the Repreſentation will give you no "Pain at all."

Rob. &c. Laſt Saturday Morning, ſeveral idle and diſorderly Perſons, reputed Thieves and Pickpockets, apprehended late the Night before, by the High-Conſtables and Petty-Conſtables, were committed to Tothill-Fields Bridewell, by Sir John Gonſon, and many other Juſtices who ſat at St. *Marg. He was known to be very poor and much in Debt, ſo that it ſeems to be the Opinion of the Magiſtrates and Neighbourhood that he is the Perſon who perpetrated this wicked Action, and they ſeem to be confirm'd in this Opinion by this Circumſtance; that the Body of the Baillie being touch'd by him bled. FOREIGN NEWS.

Arrived Mails.——Friday; one from France, one from Holland.——one from France.——Wedneſday; all that were due from France, Flanders and Holland.

FROM Spain they write that they wait for an Expreſs from the Marquis de Caſtellar, the Embaſſador in France, becauſe the Court will not determine any Thing about the Diſtribution of the Effects brought by the Flotilla, till they know the Effects of that Miniſter's Negotiations. They expect an Augmentation of the Spaniſh Troops, and a promotion of Generals; and ſay, the King will then conſult about the Operations of the next Campagne.

From Vienna, that they have a Confirmation of the great Revolution in Turky.

From Berlin, that a fine new Equipage and Liveries are making for the Prince Royal; and that his Houſhold is ſettled. Theſe Letters ſay Lieutenant Katt is to be hang'd in Effigy (before he chuſes this Way of Hanging before the Common) and Colonel Spar is to be broke, and impriſon'd for three Years; but they don't mention any Thing of Major General Catſch's Execution.

By Letters from Ceuta we are told, that the King of Morocco had a bloody Battle in open Field, with the greateſt Part of the Chiefs of the Rebels of his Kingdom; in which the latter were defeated, with the Loſs of 7000 Whites upon the Spot, the reſt being put to Flight. The Blacks who are with the King have much enrich'd themſelves, with the Spoils of their Enemies, both by the Money they found, and the great Number of Cattle they took, whereof the King has 5 per Cent. and his Share comes to 4000 Livres in Cows, and 2000 Camels.

The Imperial Miniſters have conceiv'd a Jealouſy, that if the Turks make Peace with the Perſians, it is only to break with the Muſcovites; and they pretend to be inform'd that the Port is put upon this Scent by ſome Chriſtian Potentates.

There is likely to be a total Change in the Daniſh Miniſtry.

They write from Rome, that a certain Monk (I hope not Geron) of quick Thought and good Aſſurance, dreſs'd himſelf in the Habit of a Prelate, and went to Cardinal Coſcia's, deſiring to ſpeak with him; being introduc'd, he whiſper'd his Eminency, that the Pope had given him another Biſhoprick in lieu of Benevente, which he had lately reſign'd; and that having the Honour to ſtand forward in the Holy Father's Confidence, he had charged him to deliver this Meſſage, and with I to aſſure his Eminency, that he might take Courage, for that his Affair ſhould be terminated to his Satisfaction, and he might depend upon it, the Pontiff was ready to give him Proofs of his good Wiſhes. The Cardinal overjoy'd at this good News, gave the Monk 100 Piſtoles, on the Receipt of which, he went from him, and made Cardinal Fini the ſame Complement, who likewiſe gave him a good Sum of Money, with which he walk'd off; but we hear he is ſince taken. How dexterouſly theſe People play at Rob Thief!

From Vienna, we are told, that the new Levies are carry'd on with very good Succeſs, and that the Emperor is reſolv'd to augment the Troops with 15,000 Men, during the Winter. Don Manuel of Portugal is arriv'd in Sileſia.——By freſh Letters from Conſtantinople, that the late Tumult is entirely ceas'd; that the Janizaries found ſeveral Millions of Money at the Vizir's and Kiaja's lately ſtrangled, ſo that every Man in the Army, which conſiſted of 40,000 Janizaries and 25,000 other Soldiers, had 25 Pieces of Eight to his Share.

An Off-Hand Epigram.

On ſeeing the Picture of the Rt. Hon. H——y P——ns, Eſq; actually engrav'd by Order, and for the Service of the Grubean Society; ten thouſand of which (as their own Members induſtriouſly reported) were intended to be printed in their laſt Thurſday's Journal.

O Mirum Magnum!

HOW durſt ye, bold Satyriſts, make a meer Farce on
The May'r of your Town, as well as your Parson:
By this wondrous Conceit you would fain have it ſaid,
That his Ld—p's a Grub, and next P—e at your Head:
For which may your Roguefhips to Br——ll be ſent!
Where you'll find to your Coſt he's indeed President.

This Day is Publiſhed,
(On a Half-Sheet of ſuperfine Paper)

THE Tragi-Comic Tale of the Leak diſcover'd; or, Work for a Cooper; extracted out of our laſt Week's Regiſter (there having been a larger Demand for it than we were prepar'd for, or aware of) embelliſh'd with an humourous Head-piece and Tail-piece proper to the Occaſion, curiouſly engrav'd by an H—g—thian Artiſt, whoſe Genius naturally inclines him to Groteſque Figures. And we are the rather induc'd to oblige our kind Cuſtomers in this pompous Manner, that they may be hung up in Frames with Glaſſes; imagining our Project will be conſtrued as a true Proteſtant Attempt, and a juſt Satyr on the vicious Part of the Romiſh Clergy. Sold by Wm. Pritchard, Printſeller, at the Corner of Duke's Court, near the Meuſe. Price Three-pence.
